VERIGIN MAY BE REPORTED WHEN FREED
Reports Say Papers Issued for Deportation of Doukhobor Leader
IS SERVING PRISON TERM FOR PERJURY

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (CP).—The shadow of deportation loomed tonight over the Doukhobor leader, Peter Verigin, who is serving an eighteen-month sentence for perjury. Reports were current tonight that papers had been issued and only awaited formal presentation.

From Victoria, B.C., where Verigin recently was convicted and sentenced, it was learned "on high authority" that the Doukhobor leader had been served with deportation papers.

NOT CONFIRMED
Serving of the papers, it was said, followed investigation by the Immigration Department through the Saskatchewan Attorney-General's Department. Confirmation of this, however, could not be obtained from the Attorney-General.

Department of Immigration officials visited Verigin at Prince Albert two weeks ago. When Peter Verigin stated today, and informed him an order for deportation had been made out.

HAS RIGHT TO DEFEND
Verigin, president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, and virtually a monarch to Doukhobors in Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Manitoba, was uncommunicative. Formal proceedings may require some considerable time, was stated. The Doukhobor head would have the right of defense as well as the right of appeal.

Verigin has been heard of the Doukhobors since he arrived in Canada in September, 1927, from Russia. He succeeded his father, Peter Verigin I, who was killed on October 29, 1924, by an explosion which wrecked a passenger train near Farron, B.C.

HALT CEREMONY AT VIMY RIDGE
Mistake Causes Premature Assembly to See Memorial's Completion
ARRAS, France, Sept. 8 (CP).—Hanging from the end of a great crane a nine-ton stone is poised tonight over the summit of Canada's memorial at Vimy Ridge, where the battle of Vimy Ridge, which was the turning point of the war, was fought. The ceremony of completion was interrupted.

At the last moment, Brigadier-General Henry T. Hughes, after conferring with the builders, decided the stone should not be laid today. Apologies were tendered to the French guests, who accepted them with graceful gestures and puzzled glances at "the last stone" still hanging far above them.

MISPLACED ZEAL
It was explained afterwards, an employee of the Canadian authorities had circulated news of the memorial's completion, with misplaced zeal, causing a party of eminent visitors to attend. Brigadier-General Hughes, whose home is in Victoria, directed the construction work and intended the ceremony of completion to be private.

Actual completion of the memorial is not expected until the latter part of 1934, as sculptures figures of heroic size are yet to be carved on the higher levels. The topmost figure of twenty feet will be placed above the main platform. One figure on the lower level, representing the Spirit of Canada, is already finished.

Towering 135 feet above the ridge and containing 6,000 tons of flawless stone the structure commemorates Canadian valor at Vimy. It has been under construction since 1924.

MAY DRAFT MEN FOR HARVESTING
CALGARY, Sept. 8 (CP).—Calgary City Council today was considering a scheme for drafting 1,000 married unemployed men to farms in Southern Alberta, where a shortage of labor is reported in various sections.

The city council was officially notified of the labor shortage by the Government Employment Bureau, which during the past two days has sent about 250 men into the south to assist in harvesting wheat crops.

Coming of Reconstruction Period Seen by Canadian Bank
TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP).—The Canadian Bank of Commerce, in its monthly news letter made public tonight, saw in rising security prices evidence of a period of reconstruction.
"A few important developments," the letter said, "would seem to indicate that the period of panic has passed and that one of reconstruction is ahead."
While the letter laid much of the general improvement to international action leveled at the forces of depression, it added conditions throughout Canada showed signs of recovery in themselves.

Recovery of sentiment in the West, improved crop conditions and prospects over those of last year and the willingness of Canadian financial institutions to back sound expansion of business, it said, promised greater activity.

No Immediate Move Likely in Proposal For Union Ministry

Cabinet Meeting Passes Without Further Official Announcement From Government—Legislative Action Would Require Considerable Time
SUGGESTED creation of a Union Government in British Columbia formed the centre of public and political interest yesterday, ever since the announcement by Premier Tolmie that he favored temporarily setting aside party lines which have existed since the formation of the first party ministry in 1903 by the late Sir Richard McBride. An ounce of fact gave rise to a ton of speculation during the day, which closed without added announcement from Government circles in any form.

In point of fact, Premier Tolmie held a three-hour discussion at a meeting of the Executive Council, being closed to his ministers from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., without interruption. In addition to members of the Cabinet in charge of active portfolios, Hon. W. C. Shelly, president of the council, and Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., minister without portfolio, were present. Hon. William Atkinson, returning from Toronto, where he attended a Dominion-Provincial agricultural assembly, was the only absentee.

At the close of the meeting, Premier Tolmie said he was not prepared to add yet to his initial pronouncement made on Wednesday.

ACTION WITHHELD
It was learned on good authority that the Premier has not yet called for the resignation of any of his ministers, nor have any invitations gone out to leaders outside the cabinet to join a Union Ministry. Within and without the Government, consultations were said to be continuing.

DISAPPEARANCE CAUSES ALARM
Col. Raymond Robins Missing Two Days—Went to Call On President
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The disappearance of Colonel Raymond Robins, outspoken prohibitionist, since he arrived last week in New York to see President Hoover here Tuesday, was disclosed today at the White House, and caused for his safety deepened when Mrs. Robins, in Maine, expressed fear her husband had been killed by "Florida bootleggers."

Shortly after White House officials expressed concern at the failure of efforts to locate Colonel Robins, Mrs. Robins telephoned here from Maine that he had received numerous threats of death unless he stopped his prohibition efforts.

A close friend of President Hoover, Colonel Robins had accepted an invitation to call on the chief executive at the White House on Tuesday, when he planned to come here from New York.

When Robins failed to keep his engagement Tuesday the White House began making inquiries. Federal investigators were placed on the case, but thus far have reported no tangible results.

Fear Bandits May Murder Captives
MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 8 (AP).—Fear that bandits who captured two British citizens near Newchang, yesterday, might kill their prisoners if they were pressed too hard, caused anxiety to pursuing forces today.

A force of 500 Manchurian soldiers was reported encircling the bandit group, believed hurrying eastward near Asschiam with their captives, apparently making for the hills.

A cobbler of Kenebush, Wis., has been knighted by King Christian of Denmark in the Order of Dannebrog, the highest ranking order outside of the Royal family. For twenty-five years Rasmussen has been treasurer of the Danish Brotherhood of America.

HITLER WILL TAKE CHARGE
Making It His Personal Task to Upset Chancellor's Government
BERLIN, Sept. 8.—While President von Hindenburg was assuring Chancellor Franz von Papen today that he would support the chancellor's Government, through the Reichstag, Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, came back to Berlin to take personal charge of negotiations aimed at upsetting the Government, with a coalition of his Nazis and the Centrist Party.

Members of the Government took heart from the speech made in Munich yesterday by Hitler. The Nazi leader said he would proceed to reshape the constitution on a legal basis and that he cared nothing for titles or chancellorships so long as leadership was in his hands.

Although there has been no public announcement that the Nazis and the Centrist Party have agreed on a coalition, the President will receive representatives of the two parties on Saturday.

Over the week-end the opposition parties must decide what policy they will pursue in the Reichstag. The chancellor already has been equipped with a signed decree dissolving the Reichstag, and he plans to promulgate it before the opposition has a chance to vote no-confidence in him.

REPORTS CONQUERING 10,000 SQUARE MILES
RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 8 (AP).—General Wladimir Lima, commanding the Federal troops in the southern sector against the rebels, today reported that he had conquered 10,000 square miles in the states of Sao Paulo and Parana, including twelve important towns.

The Government here announced the situation is better under control than at any time since the beginning of the rebellion.

PEACE PROMISED IN FARM STRIKE
SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 8 (AP).—Assurances of farmers' holiday leaders that violence was ended in their battle for higher prices came today as Midwestern governors or their representatives gathered here for a conference to work out a programme of agricultural relief.

Milo Reno, of Des Moines, president of the National Farm Holiday Association, declared disturbances incidental to early strike activities about Sioux City, Council Bluffs and Des Moines "are over now."

Ship Named as Base for Ocean Air Mail Planes
BERLIN, Sept. 8 (AP).—The North German Lloyd company today announced it had designated the liner Westfalen as a floating air station in mid-Atlantic to facilitate the establishment of regular air mail between South America and Europe.

The liner will be equipped as a mother ship for transatlantic mail planes. This will include a landing platform, stores of tools and spare parts, radio equipment and weather forecasting paraphernalia.

The establishment of a floating air station is expected to solve the fuel problem of the long overwater jump.

Sending Medical Succor to Island Following Storm

NASSAU, Bahamas, Sept. 8 (AP).—A Government tender left here tonight carrying doctors, nurses and medical supplies to Abaco Island, in the Bahamas group, which was struck by high winds Monday as a tropical disturbance made its way up the Atlantic.

Communications with Abaco were out and Government officials here said they feared there may have been loss of life on the island.

Abaco Island is about three hundred miles north of Nassau, the capital of the Bahamas group.

Leaves Court Hero; Saved Lives of Six
KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP).—Brought into court on a reckless driving charge, Anatole LaFrance walked out today a hero. It developed in evidence that he had saved the lives of six girls when his automobile crashed through a wooden bridge falling into eight feet of water in Stony Creek.

LaFrance broke open a door of the car, opened other doors from the outside and dragged all his passengers to safety.

The charge against LaFrance was dismissed and he was congratulated on his heroism by Magistrate Atkinson.

MOLLISON GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION
LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—Weeping, but a cheering throng of more than 10,000 persons, greeted Captain J. A. Mollison, the first airman to conquer the North Atlantic alone from east to west, on his arrival today at Waterloo Station.

The crowd clogged up every avenue leading to the station, disrupting traffic and causing delays. They fought for vantage points to obtain a glimpse of the hero of the moment.

Accompanied by his wife, Amy Johnson, who had flown to meet him at Cherbourg, the intrepid airman accepted the popular demonstration with characteristic modesty.

STOLE PLANE TO CROSS ATLANTIC
Unlicensed Airman Planned to Win Fame and Fortune by Making Solo Flight
WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (CP).—Peter Ordinal, correspondence school airman, pleaded guilty in police court today to acting as a pilot without consent of the Air Board, and was fined $50.

He also faces a charge of stealing an airplane with which he said he had intended to make a transatlantic flight. The fine was not paid and he will remain in jail pending the hearing of the theft charge.

A statement which Ordinal said to have made to police was produced as evidence today. It disclosed that he planned to bring fame to the city and fortune to himself by hopping from Harbor Grace to Dublin, Ireland. He explained that after getting the sea-lane into the air, he found it was not working right, and he brought it back onto the river. It is the first time that a person has been charged with stealing an airplane in Manitoba.

Report to Be Published From Geneva Said to Advise Establishment of Autonomous Government Under Japanese Advisers but Chinese Sovereignty, Police Under Foreign Supervision

Return to Previous Status Thought to Be Impossible

TOKIO, Sept. 9 (AP).—An arrangement recognizing China's sovereignty in Manchuria but with the establishment of its autonomy under Japanese advisers, official sources here said today, was recommended in the report of the League of Nations inquiry commission which is now filed with the League headquarters at Geneva.

These sources said the information on the contents of the report, which the commission refused to reveal until it would be published from Geneva, came from Japanese representatives at Peiping, who transmitted what purported to be a resume of the report.

AUTONOMOUS GOVERNMENT
The plan for establishment of an autonomous government, the report said, was to be worked out in negotiations by China and Japan with representatives of Manchuria and observers representing the League, according to the recommendation.

The chapter entitled "Electricity" it said, gives it as the opinion of the commission that a return to the status before the Japanese campaign which began on September 19, 1931, was impossible, as well as Japanese annexation of the territory or the establishment of a Japanese protectorate.

The report said it also recommended complete demilitarization of Manchuria and the establishment of a native police force under foreign supervision.

The report quoted one member of the commission as saying in effect that Japan won every point in the report as finally framed and that it was revised in many instances to take Japanese contentions into consideration.

A CRYPTIC REPLY
The Foreign Office spokesman, however, when asked whether the purported report would be acceptable to Japan, replied that Japan's recognition of Manchukuo next day would be her answer to any proposals to restore Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

The Foreign Office instructed the Japanese representatives at Geneva to ask the League to withhold publication of the report until the Japanese Government had studied it and prepared observations on it. This, it was said, would require from four to six weeks.

RIOT ACT READ AT ST. JOHN'S
Trial Then Proceeds of Rioter While Police Reinforcements On Way
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 8 (CP).—Practically the entire police force of St. John's arrived at the town of Carbonear tonight to find that the word of their coming had stayed the hands of unemployed rioters.

The trial of a rioter, interrupted when sympathizers threatened court officers, was allowed to proceed after Magistrate John Casey had caused the Riot Act to be read.

PROTESTED DOLE CUT
The trouble had its beginning last week when a crowd of 600, protesting against a cut in the distribution of unemployed, put on a demonstration at the courthouse. One of their number, W. Clarke, was charged with assaulting a police sergeant.

But when, on Tuesday, police went to Ferry's Cove with a warrant for Clarke's arrest, his friend refused to turn him over to the court. They promised to deliver him today, but threatened that he would be released by force if punishment was meted out on the assault charge.

EMERGENCY CALL
Today a crowd of about 200 from Victoria Village and Perry's Cove, nearby settlements, interrupted the court proceedings. Magistrate Casey was unable to give judgment and an emergency call was sent to St. John's. From the capital 115 police left by special train for the town on the other side of Conception Bay. Meanwhile, his magistrate had instructed a justice of the peace to read the Riot Act. Word of the police reached Carbonear. The trial was resumed. Magistrate Casey found Clarke guilty and suspended sentence.

Jobs Go Begging In Harvest Field
SASKATOON, Sept. 8.—With 500 harvest jobs at $2 and $2.50 per day going begging, Frank Rowland, city relief officer, today warned married men with no children or with only one child that relief would be stopped unless they took farm work. A number of men are holding out for $3 per day.

the representative of the British Columbia Government at the meeting. Mr. Jones returned on the afternoon boat from Vancouver. Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, said Mr. Jones told delegates from the four Western Provinces and municipal officials present, that final action must await decision by the Federal Cabinet in the matter. Meanwhile, the Prime Minister took under advisement representations advanced by the West in regard to relief administration for the balance of this year.

PROFFER REQUESTS
Requests at the meeting from Western delegates included a call for national registration of the unemployed, particularly with regard to transients; creation of camps for single men, and increase of the Federal proportion of direct relief costs to 50 per cent, instead of one-third of the expense, as at present. Proposals made at the earlier conference at Edmonton were again advanced at the most recent meeting.

Bennett advised Provincial ministers at the gathering that every effort should be made to curtail relief expenditures. This, in so far as British Columbia is concerned, was anticipated.

Due to increasing anti-Japanese sentiment in Shanghai, China, Japanese cotton mills are operating at only half capacity, while Chinese mills are running on full schedule.

FLYING BOATS TO FORM LINK

Four Planes Under Construction for France-Argentina Service

PARIS, Sept. 7 (UP).—Four giant flying boats soon will be completed in French factories to link Paris and Buenos Aires in a six-day flying service. One aircraft, the Latécoere, is completed and is undergoing tests; a second is nearly ready for launching from the Bleriot sheds, while two others are being built by the Loire and Breguet firms.

Ordered by the French Air Ministry last year, the flying ships are prototypes. When they all have been completed, the Government will call in the experts of the Aeropostale and request them to choose the craft they consider most suitable for the France-South America air route.

DELIVERY DATE UNCERTAIN
No date has been fixed for delivery, but it is hoped that they may be ready before December. Tests are likely to take considerable time, so that the first trial flight to Buenos Aires is still a long way off. The requirements are that the aircraft should be able to cover the 8,200 miles to the Argentine capital in six days.

Up to the present, the service is by plane to Rabat, Cape Juby, Port Etienne and Dakar. Instead of transferring the mail to ships at Port Dakar, as at present, the new service will continue by air to Natal and thence down the South American coast.

COST 15,000,000 FRANCS
The Bleriot craft is estimated to cost 15,000,000 francs. It is manufactured to the design of M. Philip Zapata. The ship is a high wing monoplane fitted with four Hispano-Suiza engines of 640 h.p. each. The crew will consist of the captain, two pilots and an engineer.

Once the Government and the Aeropostale make their final choice of the best machine, orders will be given to manufacture others of the same type for a regular all-air service right through to Argentina and Chile.

proceeding with the next move definitely in the hands of the Premier, who alone can speak on Cabinet reorganization in any form.

Immediate public reaction to the Premier's initial statement appeared favorable to the proposal. In party circles, opinion was more sharply divided. Prominent Liberals would not speak pending a sign from T. D. Pattullo, who heretofore has been openly against coalition in any form. Some Conservatives were awaiting the further statement of the Premier.

CALL TO MR. PATTULLO
It is not to be doubted that the Leader of the Opposition will receive a call to join the seats of the Government. It is also likely that such an invitation will go out to W. J. Bowser, K.C., and possibly to some representative of business in

MACHRAY CHARGED WITH $900,000 THEFT FROM UNIVERSITY

RAIL SET AT $100,000
Bail was fixed for the second charge at $50,000 in outside securities and $50,000 for Mr. Machray himself. Bondsman who went his surety on August 25 were released in connection with the first charge and signed new bail bonds for a similar amount on the second.

It is understood Mr. Machray's personal appearance in court was insisted on yesterday by Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General. Ever since the case has been before the court there has been doubt as to how far comment could be given without appearance of the accused. Defence counsel undertook not to register any objections on technicalities of this kind, but the Crown was firm on the point that only a personal appearance in court would do.

HEALTH IS IMPROVED
The prisoner was attended by his two medical advisers, and while showing some signs of the strain he was under, his health appeared to be considerably improved. He sat at a table usually reserved for counsel, with his medical attendants sitting close beside him. Beyond the brief period he was on his feet, while the charge was being read to him, he sat in his chair, face buried in his hands. Evidently he was more or less tired by the automobile trip from his home to the courtroom, and he seemed to take little interest in proceedings.

He was detained for a few minutes in the office of Magistrate H. P. Wellsford, while bail bonds were renewed, and was then taken back to his residence in the family automobile. The court room was packed to the doors, with scores standing.

APPLICATION FAILED
While formalities of bail arrangements were being completed, other application was made before Chief Justice D. A. Macdonald, of the Court of King's Bench, under the bankruptcy proceedings filed Saturday by the university board of governors. An order named the Royal Trust Company interim receiver for Mr. Machray personally. The company was appointed in similar capacity Saturday for the investment firm of Machray & Sharp, which had charge of the University and Anglican Church Trusts. The church interest, through their solicitors, were parties to today's application along with the university board.

Being conducted in connection with church funds, has already disclosed heavy shortages. A. E. Hoskin, K.C., appeared as Mr. Machray's counsel and consented to the order.

Jules Prudhomme, K.C., church solicitor, in his affidavit, set forth that Mr. Machray is possessed of property apart from the partnership assets, and says there are mortgages and securities standing in his name in trust for the partnership and for one or more of the creditors of the firm.

SPECULATION RIFE
Speculation as to the personnel of the judicial commission which Hon. R. Hogg, Minister of Education and Acting Premier, has recommended to probe university shortages was rife today, but an official statement awaits a meeting of the Cabinet council.

Further investigation into disappearance of university funds indicates that between six and seven

B. A. McKelvie Advises Early Effort to Take Advantage of Treaties

Just what degree of benefit will eventually accrue to British Columbia through the success of the Imperial Economic Conference depends entirely upon the effort manufacturers and business men are willing to put forward now to take advantage of the markets that will be opened to them when individual treaties between the Dominions are ratified, declared B. A. McKelvie, in an address to the members of the Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. McKelvie, who represented The Colonist at the conference, was also there with representatives of British Columbia trade and his contact and observation in the dual capacity provided him with ample opportunities to procure an insight into the benefits that might reasonably be expected to follow the successful conclusion of the conference. His advice to the trade group of British Columbia to prepare, may also be taken as a warning to manufacturers and business men to set about oiling the machinery of long idle plants, or they will not be in a position to offer what the new markets will demand. He mentioned particularly the lumber and fishery industries, but intimated his remarks applied equally to all products.

GO AFTER BUSINESS

"The people of British Columbia, and I might say the people of Canada, do not yet appreciate what the success of the conference means. If they did they would lose no time in going after the business that is awaiting them in the greatest market in the world—the market of the British Dominions," Mr. McKelvie stated. He also mentioned that it would be necessary for a disarming of the old methods of doing business. "Manufacturers must realize they must manufacture to the requirements of each section of that vast market of the British Empire."

In the course of his remarks, Mr. McKelvie mentioned some of the bigger things of the conference and the dangers that surrounded the statements of the Empire and the difficulties experienced and the enormous responsibilities carried on the shoulders of the Empire delegates in the task of recreating, or remoulding the whole trade fabric of a nation of millions of people, and in doing so, hold together in unity an Empire with its variations of race, creed, religion and national spirit.

MAGNITUDE OF SUCCESS

The accomplishment of success of the Ottawa conference was, Mr. McKelvie declared, the greatest event that has ever occurred on the North American Continent. "It is impossible yet to grasp the real importance of that gathering in Ottawa. It is not possible for anyone to convey to you that importance, or to stimulate you to the realization of what magnitude this success has been. Because it was not greeted with a blast of trumpets, or attuned to the lively airs of a brass band some people, and especially those to the south of the line, cannot believe that any gathering that has not the color of a political convention can be of much good," he stated.

Mr. McKelvie was introduced to the members of the club by George McGregor, president, who thanked him a sincere vote of thanks at the conclusion of his address.

HAVE IMPROVED THEIR POSITION

Farmers of Western Provinces Cut Down Production Costs Through Their Own Efforts

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—The individual farmer of the Canadian West due to his own industry and resourcefulness, is in a stronger position today than he was a year ago, according to R. L. Burnap, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways in charge of traffic, who returned today from an extensive trip through the West. This is because the farmers have succeeded in cutting down his production costs, and is, therefore, doing business on a more sound economic basis.

SHOW WONDERFUL SPIRIT

"It is too early, of course, to predict any very noticeable improvement in general conditions," Mr. Burnap continued. "Much will depend upon the price at which this year's crop is marketed. The farmers, however, are doing everything possible to meet present conditions and have tackled their problems with a truly wonderful spirit. The result, I think, is a feeling of courage and confidence in many sections of the West. I talked with machinery men who are predicting that next year there will be a renewal of demand for farm machines."

Mr. Burnap expressed himself as much impressed with the facilities that have been established at Port Churchill.

Mistress—Now, Matilda, I want you to show us what you can do tonight. We have a few very special friends coming for a musical evening.

Maid—Well, ma'am, I ain't done no singin' to speak of for years, but if you'll insista upon it, you can put me down for "The Holy City."

PILCHARD BOATS ARE DOING WELL

West Coast Reduction Plants Operating—Dog Salmon Situation Uncertain

TOPINO, Sept. 8.—Pilchard fishing was reported good last week, almost all West Coast reduction plants reporting capacity hauls by the boats of their respective fleets. Owing to bad weather conditions prevailing throughout the Summer, the total tonnage, in proportion to the number of plants operating this season as compared with last year, is several thousand tons less than the 1931 season; but with a few weeks' fishing still to go, with good weather, the fishermen have time to gather in a few thousand tons more.

The present is the off season for salting on the West Coast. With the sockeye season definitely closed, plants reporting capacity hauls by the boats of their respective fleets. Owing to bad weather conditions prevailing throughout the Summer, the total tonnage, in proportion to the number of plants operating this season as compared with last year, is several thousand tons less than the 1931 season; but with a few weeks' fishing still to go, with good weather, the fishermen have time to gather in a few thousand tons more.

UNCERTAINTY EXISTS

A state of uncertainty exists among the fishermen as to the prospects for dog salmon fishing this Fall. Owing to the low rate of exchange of Japanese and Chinese money, to which countries most of the dog salmon is shipped, it is not profitable to dry salt and ship to this market while such a condition exists. It is not known yet among the fishermen whether the canneries will be canning the dog salmon, or chums, as they are known this year. The dog salmon fishing usually commences the first week in September and already a few have been landed.

Trolling is practically over for the season, the spruce salmon trolling being stopped altogether on account of the fish becoming darker in color and not so attractive for the fresh fish market. The Department of Fisheries also discourages fishing for spruce salmon at this time of the year as the fish are making their way to the spawning grounds up the various streams and lakes along the coast.

A few trawlers, however, continue to catch a good number of cohoes, which the fish buying camps at Tofino, Tofino and Kyquogot continue to buy.

A STORY WITHOUT WORDS

Weekly Concerts To Be Resumed at Recreation Room

Weekly free concerts at the Citizens' Recreation Room for unemployed will be resumed after October 1, it was decided at a meeting of the committee in charge held on Wednesday night. Following this date also the rooms will be open on Sundays from 2 to 10 p.m., the practice being discontinued during the Summer months.

Attendance and finance reports were received at the meeting from A. H. Hurdley, secretary, and R. F. Taylor, treasurer. Mr. Hurdley stated that the daily attendance during the Summer had been well above 200 men a day, which he said was an indication that the rooms would prove their worth in the Winter season.

August expenses were $230.32, Mr. Taylor reported, while the donations totaled only $34.10, necessitating drawing on the reserve fund for the balance. As this work is carried on by public subscription, an urgent appeal was made for greater support by Victoria citizens, who, it was felt, should realize the value of the work being done. Donations will be received by the secretary.

BLAMES CABBAGE AS GOITRE CAUSE

Experiments on Rabbits and Survey of Winnipeg Children Supports Theory

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (CP).—Cabbage, that pillar of the vegetable kingdom, that brings vitamins cheaply to the dinner table, is under medical suspicion as a cause of goitre.

In his address to the Manitoba Medical Association in convention today, A. C. Abbott, Winnipeg, cited experiments carried out at Johns Hopkins University, which showed that cabbage causes goitre in rabbits in the short space of three weeks. He told of a survey he has recently completed among Winnipeg school children, in which his findings were varied, showed less than 12 per cent affected by thyroid glands, while between 30 and 40 per cent of children whose people came from Central Europe had enlarged thyroids. He found Central Europeans ate a tremendous amount of cabbage, in comparison with British people.

Dominion Assent Given Bridge Site

Subject to the assent of the City of Vancouver as lessees of Stanley Park, and the Department of National Defence, the Dominion Government has approved of the leasing of 4.5 acres of park property immediately east of Prospect Point lighthouse at a bridge-head for the bridge over the First Narrows of Burrard Inlet.

Notice of the Federal order-in-council approving of the use of the property in question, with the reservations, is contained in this week's issue of The British Columbia Gazette, over the signature of E. J. Lemire, clerk of the Privy Council.

FORMER VICTORIA RESIDENT PASSES

G. Stephen Wood Succumbs in Vancouver—Lived Here for Twelve Years

Many former Prairie residents, now living in Victoria, will regret to hear of the death in Vancouver of G. Stephen Wood, who, until last May had resided in this city since 1920, where he was well known and respected. Mr. Wood died suddenly at his home in Vancouver yesterday morning.

Born in St. Catharines, Ont., in 1861, Mr. Wood was engaged with his brother in the wholesale leather goods business for several years. In 1909 he went to Regina, continuing his trade in the prairie centre until 1920, when he was ordered to come to Victoria for his health.

During his retirement in this city, he resided at Hampton Court, with Mrs. Wood. Last May they moved to Vancouver, living next door to their daughter, Mrs. W. H. Parker. The funeral will take place in Vancouver tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock.

Besides his widow, he is survived by four children, Frank, of Regina, Charles, of Fullerton, California; Mrs. W. H. Parker, of Vancouver, and Mrs. G. T. Harding, of Marysville, and two brothers and four sisters in Eastern Canada.

Too Many Drivers Not Paying Fines Magistrate Avers

Inability of youthful drivers of automobiles to pay fines when convicted of infractions of the traffic regulations will not be accepted as an excuse for leniency of the court, Magistrate George Jay intimated in the city police court yesterday morning after two youths had been found guilty of driving to the common danger and asked "time to pay."

"There have been too many cases of reckless drivers who cannot shoulder the responsibility for their acts," the magistrate said. "It merely leads to the conclusion that they must go to jail if they do not meet their fines."

Robert Carlow and Robert Noble admitted common danger offences yesterday morning and fines were levied accordingly, and each intimated their inability to pay. They were each allowed six days to make payment of the fine or they will go to jail for five days, the magistrate ordered.

DEATH SUMMONS

ROBERT GORNALL

There passed away yesterday afternoon at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, John William Gornall, aged fifty-seven years. He was born in England and had been a resident of this city for the past twenty years. His last residence being 2352 Todd Road.

Robert survive his widow, and five sons, Robert, John, William, Fred and David; also three brothers and one sister in England. Mr. Gornall was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gornall, Harrow-on-the-Hill, England.

The funeral has been arranged to take place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company's Chapel on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE RATE OF THE HEART BEAT

As a youngster I was very much interested in a little instrument called a "pedometer," which measured the distance walked. It could be adjusted to the length of the stride taken with each step.

Dr. Ernest P. Boas tells of the use of an instrument known as a "cardiometer," which measures the rate at which the heart beats. By the use of this instrument he studied the effect of exhausting exercise on the heart rates of twenty-seven boys from nine to fifteen years of age. The exercise consisted of having them run back and forth on a long corridor until they were nearly exhausted and then up a flight of stairs and down again. The average duration of the exercise was eight and three-quarter minutes. Immediately after the exercise the boys lay down on a bed.

The striking feature was the very high heart rate shown by most of the boys. During the second minute of the exercise the average rate was 182, about two and one-half times the rate of the heart when at rest—seventy-six to seventy-eight. In three cases the highest rate was over 200. In adults doing severe work the highest rate is usually about 160 to 170.

Just as soon as the exercise began, the heart began to beat faster, to supply the extra blood needed by the muscles to do the exercise.

Almost an hour after the exercise was taken, the average rate was still about twelve points higher than before the exercise was taken, but there was a great drop in the rate at the end of the first minute after the exercise was completed.

These figures teach us that the heart is capable of doing a great amount of work whenever there is any need for it. It increases its rate immediately, and when the work is done, the rate returns almost to normal within one or two minutes. This returning to normal within a short time is the usual "army test" as to the ability of the heart to do the heavy work required of it in warfare.

When you have an ailment, even a slight one, the heart rate increases in order to do the extra work needed to fight off the ailment. And even after the ailment has passed over, the heart will continue to beat a little more rapidly for a few days afterwards.

The thought, then, is that your heart is capable of doing two or three times its regular amount of work, and that although it returns to nearly normal in one or two minutes, there is always the need of a little extra rest after work or an ailment until the normal rate returns.

DUMPING

Canada will benefit, not only in the matter of lumber but in wheat as well, because of the Hall-sham formula adopted at the Imperial Conference which provides that dumping from a country where State trading prevails can be checked. Russia, as well as still being in process of filling an order from British importers for 450,000 standards of timber, has also, up to the beginning of the present year and particularly for a period of six months in the latter half of 1931, been pouring wheat into Britain to an extent that has interfered seriously with Canada's ability to secure the British trade. In effect, the influence of Soviet exports on British and other markets has been profound and has been largely responsible for a dislocation of world trade.

The Duchess of Atholl, who is admirably informed on trade matters, has been commenting on the results of the Imperial Conference. She quotes British Board of Trade figures to show how Russian wheat has been pouring into Britain. In September, 1931, 7,270,591 cwt. of the Soviet product were imported, and in the five months from August to December, 1931, inclusive, the Soviet wheat product reaching Britain totaled 20,567,458 cwt. It is significant that no rise in prices for wheat occurred until in October last there was a considerable fall in the supply of the Russian product. In January, when it became apparent that little more, if any, wheat would be forthcoming from Russia for the time being, prices rose and remained at the January level for about six months.

At the moment the United Kingdom is the biggest purchaser of Russian products. The Duchess of Atholl believes that in the interest of Imperial trade, Britain should close her doors to the Russian exports, and she feels assured that if she did so other countries would not be slow to follow her example. Through the findings of the Imperial Conference, Britain is pledged to stop dumping due to State action. Russia is not the only country where State action of different kinds facilitates dumping to the detriment of British and Canadian industry. In the opinion of the Duchess, Ottawa has given a lead, "in a matter of vital importance to world trade and we may hope that international action of the same kind will follow in due course."

A LEGAL OBLIGATION

Mr. Cosgrave, ex-President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, is under no delusions about his country's obligation to pay Land Annuities. He says that the successive governments at Dublin with which he was associated were fully satisfied, after careful consideration and with the guidance of the most competent legal opinion available, that the land annuities payable by tenant purchasers under the Land Purchase Acts were legally applicable, and, in accordance with the law in force in the Irish Free State, only applicable, in discharge of interest and sinking fund payments on land stock representing the advances which had been made to the tenant purchasers.

Mr. Cosgrave sees no hope of arriving at any new solution of the impasse by resort to any legal tribunal. He intimates, indeed, that Mr. de Valera's Government has now come to this conclusion, and points out that, "even if the Valera Government were to repudiate the agreement it would still be bound by the law in force in the Irish Free State, apart even from Section 12 of the Land Act, 1932, to apply the annuities in discharge of interest and sinking fund payments and could not lawfully retain them as revenue of the State."

In effect, Mr. Cosgrave does not believe in the doctrine of repudiation and sees no hope along the line of legal chicanery. He says: "When we made the settlement of 1925, wiping out our liability for War Debts I told the British Government that we were paying out £3,550,000 a year for land held by our people, most of whom were occupying unoccupied holdings, and that we were not in a position to pay any more. We used the fact of our liability to pay the annuities to help us to get out of the further liability under Article V of the Treaty, and we succeeded. Having succeeded, we could not again seek any remission of the payments. The situation has now altered. There is the hope of an all-round remission of War Debts. If Great Britain can get such a remission the liability she undertook under the agreement of December, 1925, may be reduced, and consequently the case may arise for a remission of the land annuity payments."

NEW YORK THE PIVOTAL STATE

Success for the Republicans in the American presidential election in November seems to hinge on the ability of Mr. Hoover to carry New York State. If he fails to win in New York the probability is that he will be defeated. Only once in the past forty years have the Republicans failed to carry New York, and that was in 1912 when the State voted for Mr. Woodrow Wilson. New York has remained for the most part Republican because of the tariff. It votes in favor of stability, believing that fewer tariff changes will result from Republican than from Democratic rule.

The American political system moves slowly, perhaps slower than it does in any other country. If, for instance, Mr. Roosevelt should be elected in November he will not take office until March next year. The new Congress will not meet until December, or thirteen months after the election. If there were to be tariff changes they could not eventuate within a year, and during that period there would be a reign of uncertainty in the business world. Business men do not like such uncertainty. It is the fear of stability being endangered that makes New York State time and again vote for a Republican President.

Thus, while the greatest danger to Mr. Hoover's re-election is the uncertainty of economic conditions, the greatest comfort in his campaign lies in the uncertainty that would be promoted by his rival being elected to office. The situation has a paradoxical bent. The centre of the political cauldron is New York State with its 47 electoral votes out of a total of 531. Moreover, it is a matter of history that as New York votes so also, in the majority of instances, is the voice of New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. These States between them control 92 electoral votes.

PERFECT VIEW OF ECLIPSE

One point in Quebec where it was possible to see the eclipse of August 31, under almost perfect conditions, was Sorel, sixty miles east of Montreal. One spectator of the event there describes the period of totality as follows: "From all round the sun's obscured disk, shooting out in all directions for what must have been millions of miles, were streams of pearly light—the corona which we all had come to see. On the upper portion of the sun's left-hand side and on the lower portion of the right-hand side these shafts of light were longer than elsewhere, and although I am only a layman it seemed to me that this light spread out farther than on any photos I had seen of previous eclipses. There did not seem to be any unusual prominences around the disk—the famous 'ant-eater' protuberance of the former eclipse. It was like the aureole which the old masters loved to paint round the head of their saints. Stars shone in the blackened heavens—one planet glowing with its steady light below and to the right of the sun. For about one hundred seconds the obscuration held, and then one tiny arc of sunlight showed that the phase of totality had passed. For myself and for most of the observers the phenomenon was over, but it had been a moment worth living for, worth traveling any distance to witness."

KIDD COMMITTEE'S INACCURACIES

The financial summary that the Kidd Committee gives in its report, in some respects, at variance with the facts. It sets the net debt of the Province at $119,000,000, whereas it is $111,000,000. It estimates sinking funds at $24,000,000, whereas their total is $27,000,000. It makes the statement that British Columbia House is costing the Province $90,000 this year. The actual cost is $26,000. The committee, for some reason, decided to overlook the receipt of $65,000 in rentals enjoyed by the Government from British Columbia House. These inaccuracies give an indication of how cursory the investigation must have been in some particulars. The official figures are available to any member of the public.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

I married one who turns the soil,
Whose hands are wet with the dews of the plough,
Who wears the mask of bitter toil,
A shining crown upon his brow;
His feet upon the furrowed loam
Walk proudly, finding earth their home.
The seasons come, the seasons go—
The shallow creeks are big with grain;
The daisies spread their petals white and blue,
The grasses bleach upon the plain;
Out in the fields I take my turn;
My arm aches at the whirling churn.
I married one who turns the soil,
Whose hand is wedded to the plough;
Love lights the dreary way of toil,
But God, the nights are long, and how
I dream of window-fronts ablaze
And city sounds and city ways!
—Domina Wills, in The Australasian.

SWEETENING TOIL

Mechanization, as it is called, has, of course, eased the burden of physical work. But it has brought with it new burdens of its own, some of which belong to the study of psychology rather than to the study of physiology. A great deal of attention, for example, is now being given to the effects of monotony and to the influence of noise. These researches, as might have been expected, are showing that different people react in different ways. (There are individuals who prefer monotonous tasks; there are other individuals who appear to enjoy busy and varied work.) It seems reasonable, therefore, that a process of selection ought to be instituted and that, so far as possible, the man ought to be chosen in the light of the job he is going to perform.—London Times.

Only what we have wrought into our character during life can we take away with us.—Humboldt.

Wedlock, indeed, hath oft compared been
To public feasts, where meet a public rout
Where they that are without would fain be
In, and they that are within would fain be Out.

Sure to prosper than prosperity
Could have assured us. —Milton.

Marriages made in Hollywood are like the life of man as described and limited by an ancient sage—or few days and full of trouble. Or like the principles of the unprincipled politician—if they do not suit they can be altered. In the earlier days of artistic life at Hollywood the divorce court was the sure and certain refuge of ill-assorted couples. The divorce court fulfilled a two-fold purpose: it combined publicity with liberty and alimony with popularity. The woman in the case was always the victim, and the longer the list of divorces—of a few days and full of trouble. Amputation Delegates Are Entertained Here

Representatives of Eastern Branches, Along With Members of Dominion Executive, Guests of Local Branch of Association

Members of the local branch of the Amputations Association of the Great War were hosts yesterday to both the members of the Dominion executive of the association, and some of the delegates representing other districts in Canada, who will attend the coming Dominion convention in Vancouver.

After being taken to Butchart's Gardens in the afternoon, the visitors attended a banquet given in their honor in the Empress Hotel last evening. At the conclusion of the supper, a general meeting was held, an invitation being extended to the visiting delegates to attend.

The first speaker of the evening was Captain the Rev. Sidney Lambert, Dominion president of the society, who gave a stirring outline of its aims. "Canada should be grateful for the way we have carried on," he stated. "If we can get by in spite of our disability, then the man without disability has no cause to lag behind."

Captain Lambert told his comrades that he thought one of the greatest aims of the society should be to make things easier for those left behind, after the members pass on.

"The purpose of the coming convention," he continued, "is to safeguard the things that we have already obtained."

Captain Edward Baker, head of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, gave a resume of the work accomplished by the Amputations Society during the past twelve months. He praised highly the present Pensioners Act and urged his hearers to work towards the betterment of the Mothers' Pensioners Act.

One of the most remarkable things about Captain Baker's address was his wonderful power of description. He managed to create almost a living word picture of the places he had visited during his trip to the Old Country.

In concluding his address and while speaking on the present depression, he stated, "There are no bread lines or hungry children in England. Her people don't talk depression and despair under the contrary, there is a lot of life in the Old Land yet."

OUTLINE DIFFICULTIES
The last speaker of the evening was Richard Meyers, who outlined the difficulties under which the present Pensioners Board labors and urged members of the Amputations Society stand firm and refrain from jealousies towards pensioners appearing to be better off than they were.

Captain F. R. Wells, president of the local branch of the society acted as chairman.

The visit to Victoria has been made for the purpose of allowing the members the opportunity of enjoying the beauties of the capital of British Columbia. Included within the association are all amputation cases and blind soldiers. There are local clubs in many cities across the continent, which are in affiliation with the association. In British Columbia there is the Victoria and Vancouver clubs. In addition there are two in Alberta, one in Saskatchewan, one in Manitoba, five in Ontario, one in Montreal, one in New Brunswick and one in Halifax. The latter representing Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

LOCAL AUTHORS HEAR GREETINGS

Mrs. Nellie McClung Brings Good Wishes From Calgary Writers to Victoria

At the opening meeting for the Fall season held last evening, the local branch of the Canadian Authors' Association received greetings from the Calgary branch, conveyed by Mrs. Nellie McClung, who has made a reputation as an author.

The president of the local body, Donald A. Fraser, in introducing Mrs. McClung, remarked upon the pleasure they had in welcoming this author to Victoria, where she was to make her home in future.

Mrs. McClung said that the members of the Authors' Club in Calgary would rejoice in any success that attended members in the Victoria club. Touching upon the work of authors, she said that writing was a hard undertaking. Anyone who started out to depict life assumed a heavy task. She alluded to the advantages of honest criticism offered by members of the club.

Accepting criticism
Mrs. T. Gore contributed to the programme with advice for writers. She warned them to be prepared to accept criticism, which was the best method of gaining experience.

Miss Nellie Scowcroft gave readings during the evening and Miss Irene Norcross was welcomed back to Victoria on her return from Vancouver, after residing there for some years.

The president, Mr. Fraser, described the ceremonies connected with the unveiling of the monument to the laying of the cable at Bamfield. He also made reference to the death of Sir Gilbert Parker, the noted Canadian-born author. In addition, Miss Eugene Perry read an account of the life and works of Sir Gilbert.

Big Fish on Light Tackle

A 391-pound Marlin swordfish, caught off Catalina Island by J. McGill and Patterson, Chicago publisher. He used a twenty-four thread line and a fourteen-ounce hickory rod. Mr. Patterson fought his record fish for three hours and eighteen minutes before he succeeded in bringing him close enough to the boat for Captain Sam Goulding to gaff. His younger daughter, Miss Josephine Patterson, witnessed the terrific combat with the gigantic striped tiger of the sea that leaped clear of the water for his entire magnificent length eighteen times in a desperate effort to shake himself free of the hook.

INVENTION OF USE TO CAMPS

Mrs. M. Ponder, of England, Who Made Discovery in Australia, Visits Here

An Australian's invention, of value to all campers, and particularly to Girl Guides and Boy Scouts because it should prove a universal improvement to the standard type of soap pit used by the two organizations, is being taken back to England by Mrs. M. Ponder, of Hurley Whitley, Hampshire, an enthusiastic Guide who is on her way back to the Old Country after seventeen months' absence, during which she has visited Australia and New Zealand.

A captain in the local corps of Guides to which she belongs in Hampshire, Mrs. Ponder was greatly interested in Guiding in Australia and attended several Guide and Ranger camps in that country. While in most respects, the camp equipment is very similar to that used by Guides in England, she noticed the advantages of the Merries draining pit, an invention of a Dr. Merries, of Sidney, and secured all particulars with a view to trying to secure its introduction in camps in Hampshire and elsewhere. It has the advantage, she says, of being absolutely sanitary and fly-proof. Another detail in which the Australian Guide camps differed from the English was the use of the ridge tent instead of the bell tent. The former has special advantages in a hot climate like Australia's, as it permits the use of a fly above the ridge tent, which is almost necessary where the heat is so intense.

Lack of Guides
Guiding in Australia suffers from the same handicap as in England, viz. the lack of Guides. She found the girls much the same as in the Old Land.

"The hospitality of the Australians is proverbial," she reports. "One had only to praise a thing to have it thrust upon one. And although she took many introductions with her, Mrs. Ponder found that she did not require them; people were so friendly and anxious to entertain her. She has great admiration for the way in which women manage their homes, and for the marvelous amount of domestic work which they do, skilfully, without any help, and while keeping up their social responsibilities and at the same time making and attending to wonderful gardens."

While she is here Mrs. Ponder is the guest of Mrs. and Miss Hadley, Brighton Street.

PORT Foreign or Empire?

Why drink foreign Port when the Empire can produce wine of equal quality—at a lower price? EMU Port is proud of its origin. We grow the grapes on our own vineyards; we convert the grapes into wine in our own winery—at Morphet Vale, South Australia. Furthermore, EMU Wines are made up to a high standard of quality—not down to a low standard of price. Yet, in spite of this, EMU Port costs you less than foreign Port of equal quality because of the Canada-Australia Trade Agreement.

Southern Dominions Will Benefit From Ottawa Conference

Already the various agreements arising from the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa are creating additional trade in Australia and New Zealand. Antipodean business men arriving here yesterday on the Canadian-Australian liner Aorangi, declared:

"Australia and New Zealand both are satisfied with what their representatives achieved at Ottawa in arriving at a new basis for inter-empire commerce," stated H. Chapman, registrar of the University of Otago, New Zealand. "There is no branch of production in either country that will not benefit materially."

"My poor husband was a wonderful artist," sighed the landlady as he looked at the pie crust, "and always said he found inspiration in my cooking."

"A sculptor, I presume," said the gloomy boarder, surveying his bent fork.

"My daughter's face and neck were covered with a mass of sores, which our doctor diagnosed as eczema. He prescribed treatment which was tried for two months without relief. The poor child's face had to be swathed in bandages and she was confined to the house. I was about to call in a skin specialist when I heard how Zam-Buk had healed many sufferers from this dread disease, so I purchased a box of ointment and tablet of soap. After a few days treatment there was a great improvement; day by day the sores disappeared and within a month my daughter's face was entirely cleared of any sign of the terrible disease, without a single scar. I can't say too much of the wonderful healing power of Zam-Buk."—Mrs. H. A. Toronto, Ont.

H. COCHET WINS WAY TO SEMIS

French Star Advances to Last Four in U.S. Tennis Championship

ALLISON, SUTTER AND VINES WIN

By GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 8.—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Henri Cochet, Wilmer Allison and Clifford Sutter—three of the world's ranking players and a collegian—today battled their way into the semi-finals of the United States tennis championships.

Vines, twenty-year-old defending champion from Pasadena, turned back the challenge of Lester Stofen, towering Los Angeles star, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, in a match that saw the champion play daring, almost reckless tennis.

Cochet, France's tennis master and the man Vines probably will have to beat if he retains his title, rode out a wind that at times reached gale proportions in the first set, but he faltered and finally folded up entirely in the last.

ALLISON BOWNS WOOD, of Austin, Texas, and near-hero of the recent Davis Cup festivities at Paris, came from behind with a steady hand to beat to cut short the comeback of Sidney Wood, Jr., of New York, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Sutter, United States intercollegiate champion from Tulane University, New Orleans, crushed the veteran George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, 10-8, 6-0, 6-0, in a dazzling exhibition.

The line-up for tomorrow's round sends Vines against Sutter, while Allison will take another crack at the elusive Cochet, who humiliated him in their Davis Cup encounter.

Cochet, having a tough time of it with Shields in the third set and obviously not humiliated from the chilly wind, once went over to a nearby box and asked a lady kindly to tie up her hand which was flapping around. He did better after that.

Cochet broke down Shields' last resistance and made his easy victory possible in the final set when he won the crucial third.

The point score of that torrid third set, showing Cochet winning only 44 games to Shields' 40, gives an idea:

Cochet..... 1 5 4 5 1 8 4 7 5 4 6
Shields..... 4 3 6 3 4 6 6 5 3 0 4

WEST BROMWICH TO MEET DERBY

Second Place in English First Division Soccer to Be at Stake

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—West Bromwich Albion and Derby County clash at Birmingham on Saturday in a soccer game which should outdo one of their fiercest rivals in First Division standing. Both are on equal terms now with six points to their credit.

The league leaders, Aston Villa and Portsmouth, tied now after seven points, will play against Liverpool and Wolverhampton Wanderers. Aston Villa look toward a hard game, but Portsmouth are likely to increase their lead at the expense of the Wanderers, who have won only one game this season.

The Bradford team are scheduled to meet in the Second Division. Bradford City defending its place at the top of the league. The league, now running second, will face Charlton Athletic. Port Vale stands a chance of moving up if it defeats the hitherto unbeaten Wolves. United, Crystal Palace and Brentford, leaders in the Third Division, Southern Section, leave home to play the doubtful Queens' Park Rangers and Exeter City, after winning every game so far this season.

Accrington Stanley and Gateshead both stay at home to defend their leadership of the Northern Section. Chester and Barnsley, while Southampton and Stockport County, also at home, will face York City and Hull City.

Confidence has been increased in the business man's ability to meet the challenge of the modern hospital needs on its board of directors men imbued with the spirit of public service, representative of all classes in the community. Dr. H. W. Riggs, chairman of the board of directors of the Vancouver General Hospital, told delegates to the convention today.

"Interests of the business man are usually wrapped up entirely in his business," Dr. Riggs declared, "and unless he is prepared to sacrifice his business for the good of the community, we want the social lion, whose only function is in society, or the politician who is seeking to further his own ends."

"The men we need are men who feel their responsibility to the community, and who feel that they can make the sacrifice for their fellow men," he added.

The delegates were guests at a luncheon at the hospital when Dr. Riggs addressed them.

Women's Organizations and Social Activities

No Lack of "Co-Ed" in England, Says Visitor

Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson, Back From Old Country, Impressed With Spirit of Youth Shown in Increased Cult of the Outdoor

"The cult of the outdoor has increased very much in England, and if there is little co-education, there is no lack of co-ed in sports and amusements," said Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson, a Victoria woman physician, who has just returned to the city after spending the Summer in the Old Land.

Dr. Hudson was very much impressed with the enthusiasm for outdoor activities, and the increase in outdoor bathing facilities such as are now provided even in London at Hyde Park, Highgate and other places. Walking and hiking is another popular exercise. While the main roads and even some country lanes of England are definitely paved by motor traffic now, there are still, she says, ample opportunities for walkers, as the field paths and rights-of-way are jealously preserved and enthusiastically used.

NOT PROSPEROUS

"The Old Country did not appear very prosperous, and yet there was no sign of real nervousness or weakness," she reported, in speaking to The Colonist yesterday. The middle class professional people were most severely hit, for unemployment insurance and charities did not touch these. Organized health and unemployment insurance provided in a very satisfactory manner for those out of work, but it was saddening to find so many boys and young men forced to live in idleness.

"In the large cities beggars have increased in number. Obvious drunkenness is very scarce, unless it is limited to those who would seldom appear on the streets," she commented elsewhere. Despite much talk about the spreading out of the population in the Old Land, the agricultural districts south of London she found scarcely changed in the last twenty years, although better housing and better wages were usual. Instead of stopping work at 6 o'clock farmhands were to be seen harvesting their employers' hay and corn up to 8:30 p.m., and showing a certain amount of satisfaction in the fact that there was a good crop to harvest. To the Londoner the city seemed to have changed much, mostly in widening and improvement of streets and speeding up of traffic by one-way streets. Numerous new and magnificent buildings have been added in recent years.

TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT
The management of the traffic again raised a thrill of admiration for the organization and executive ability of the London city and Metropolitan police.

She found no sign of Communism having spoiled British manners or morale, and even among the youth, with what she termed their "somewhat violent methods of amusing themselves," there appeared always a firm basis of common sense.

Travel and interest in other countries showed as a definite preoccupation of young people, and simplification of dress among children and youth was taking place.

the names of the singers we have just heard?"
"Caruso," replied a small boy.
"Yes, and who was singing with him?"
"His man Friday," was the disconcerting answer.

Seamen's Institute To Hold Card Party

At the regular business meeting of the Victoria Seamen's Institute, it was decided to hold a bridge and mah jong party at the Empress Hotel on Friday afternoon, September 23, at 2:45 o'clock. Mrs. J. W. Troup was appointed convener and will be assisted by Mrs. Healy Kerr and a committee.

Mrs. W. R. Sayer, the president, was in the chair, and read the secretary's report. Mrs. Sayer and Mrs. Gordon Smith, the treasurer, gave satisfactory accounts of the work since the reopening of the institute on August 16. Recent visitors were six seamen from the S.S. Niagara. Since then forty-three men and four apprentices have signed the register.

A strong appeal is being made for magazines and 'also' fruits, which are greatly appreciated by the deep-sea men. Mrs. G. B. Marting, of Victoria, and Mrs. C. Taylor, of Sidney, were thanked for the boxes of apples and pears.

Mrs. Fimmore reported on her visits to the sick sailors in St. Joseph's Hospital, and Madame Claudet undertook to visit the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Sewing Machine Is Needed for Workers

In order to be able to assist mothers to cut out and sew garments for their children, the Friendly Help is appealing for a sewing machine for the association room in the Market Building. Old garments may often be made over into children's clothes, and gifts of cloth might be utilized in making dresses, etc., for needy families, and it has been found that many mothers are ignorant as to how the material may be cut out or sewn.

The volunteer workers of the Friendly Help Society are always on hand to give helpful advice, and much useful work might be done if there were a machine in the room.

Gifts of scissors or sewing cotton would be greatly appreciated as well, and anyone willing to assist in this way is asked to communicate with the Friendly Help Rooms.

Conservative Women Resume Year's Work

The Victoria Conservative Women's Club met last night for the first time since the holidays, and with Mrs. F. C. Kibby, the president, in the chair, discussed plans for forthcoming meetings, including the annual meeting to be held on Thursday, October 13. A nominating committee composed of Mrs. M. A. Haslam (E-9878), Mrs. N. Higgins (E-6228), and Mrs. Fred Toms (E-619) was appointed to receive nominations for officers. In the absence of the educational convener, Mrs. Edith Tubman, plans for the social evening on Thursday, September 22, did not provide for any speaker. The secretary, Mrs. Ker-shaw, read the minutes of the last meeting on June 9, and an announcement was made that the meetings would continue throughout the ensuing season every second and fourth Thursday, as in the past.

Because of increased brigandage and general disorder, farmers of Manitoba may not be able to plant more than 60 per cent of the usual crops this year.

NEW SCHEMES TO AID EMPLOYMENTAlderman P. R. Brown Explains
Plan to Give Work—Public Meeting Sept. 22 Arranged

In an effort to stimulate the employment of men in Victoria at casual labor by means of a distribution system in which residents would participate, through the Friendly Help Association, a meeting has been arranged for September 22, at 8 o'clock at the City Hall. Alderman James Adam will preside.

Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee of the City Council, placed his proposal before the association officers yesterday morning and explained in detail the plan he has in mind. His plans follow along the line of the "Give a Job" campaign which met with some success when sponsored by a group of citizens in past years. It is the "Man a Block" scheme, which has been carried out in other cities with a great amount of aid to the unemployed men and generally approved by the citizens as a whole because it gave work to the individual in need and also helped the giver.

EXPLAINS SCHEME

In his statement to the officers of the Friendly Help Association, Alderman Brown said: "For instance, in the case of a residential block where there are, perhaps, twenty homes, if Mrs. Smith, in one home, could employ a man for possibly five hours a week, and Mrs. Jones for three hours, doing casual work in gardens, chopping wood or other odd tasks, he would be afforded steady employment in one block. The cost to each householder would be negligible, but the total would provide a fair wage for the worker. There are hundreds of blocks in the city which could, so to speak, 'adopt' a man under this plan and enable him to earn a living."

"We know that many of the men now receiving relief would much prefer to earn a cash wage in return for work. Many are housewives unable to meet their tax bills. We also realize that most housewives cannot afford hired help on a pretentious scale, but when residents of one block combine to provide a few hours' work a week for one man, it should be possible to create several hundred jobs."

EMPIRE OFFERS
AIR SPECTACLEProduction of "Sky Devils" Required One Year and Half-Million Dollars

A picture that took a year in the making and cost more than a half million dollars is "Sky Devils," which Howard Hughes, who made the famous spectacle, "Hell's Angels," is offering as the first comedy of the air.

"Sky Devils" is a lightning-fast comedy, based on the thrilling and romantic adventures of three aviators during the Great War. The leading roles are played by Spencer Tracy, William Boyd, George Cooper and Ann Dvorak. An air fleet of fifty-five planes was used in filming the sensational flying scenes in "Sky Devils," and in one sequence alone fifty ships are shown in thrilling combat above the clouds.

It is an audacious tale of three flying clowns who violate every rule of war to have a good time, and in the face of court-martial for disobedience accomplish so many rare and accidental feats of gallantry that they are decorated for their impertinent exploits.

The story of "Sky Devils," which comes to the Empire Theatre to-

make little money on the four Marx Brothers.

It has been six years since three of the four comedians, currently to be seen in "Horse Feathers," at the Dominion Theatre, have had a wardrobe change for stage or screen purposes. In all that time, Groucho, Chico and Harpo have used the same general outfits, though they have adopted changes in shoes and a new shirt when action destroyed their articles.

COLUMBIA The extremes of theatre which Columbia can go to to get the intimate news they make public gossip is revealed for the first time in "Is

My Face Red?" RKO-Radio Pictures' vivid expose of the tattle-tales of journalism, now at the Columbia

Theatre. Ricardo Cortez, Helen

Twelvethrees, Robert Armstrong, Jill

Donmond and Arline Judge are featured.

ROMANO Tarsan, the noted

theatre white horse which Ken

Maynard uses in his latest Tiffany starring vehicle, "The

Two-Gun Man," now at the Romano Theatre, was insured by the film star several years ago for $10-

000 with the North American Insurance Company.

PLAYHOUSE Although both have been under contract to Paramount since the beginning of their screen careers, and have been consistently busy, Fredric March and Kay Francis appear together for the first time in pictures in "Strangers in Love," at the Playhouse Theatre

today and tomorrow.

CAPITOL "Guilty as Charged," a murder story with a comedy twist to it, is showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen and

Richard Arlen are in the starring roles. It is an adaptation of the successful stage play of the same title which enjoyed a long run on Broadway last season. Also shown is the comedy-drama, "The Big Timer," featuring Ben Lyon, Constance Cummings and Thelma Todd.

CHAPTER XXX
In Muller's she looked at the incredibly smart ensemble; the tan silk blouse, the tobacco-brown coat with a great fur collar.
"The tag seems to be gone, Mr. Muller. Not that I think it's—just my price."
"It is thirty dollars," said old Muller steadily. The saleswoman almost cried out. Even unsophisticated Gail looked bewildered.
"Thirty dollars?"
"Thirty."
She tried it on that night for the family, pulled down the rich little tobacco-brown hat over her eyes.
"You're stunning!" said Lily and Ariel. "Gee, you're cute!" Sam and Phil said. Dick said nothing.
The days were full of delights; in the long evenings she and Dick sat by the fire and planned.
"What keeps us in New York for ten days, Dick?"
"Oh, I have to see Mr. Leavitt, and we have to get you a Winter coat—or maybe we could get that in London—"
"Dick, I assure you in all seriousness that I can't believe my ears!" "It's going—," he said slowly with a rich content in his voice, "to be fun!"
"Do you know whom I'm going to miss like everything, Lily?" Gail asked. They were busy wiping the dishes.
"Phil?" suggested Phil's wife.
"Phil? Too, and of course the baby. But I mean Danny," said Gail. "He and I understand each other; I never dreamed that I could love a little boy as much as that!"
"He'll miss you too," Lily said, tears in her bright sharp eyes. "But won't we all?" she added simply.
It was only Ariel, of them all, who shared the excitement and pleasure of Gail Lawrence's marriage. Ariel had somehow lost her birthright of little sisterhood; there had been no happy flurries of flowers, gifts, wedding frocks and wedding plans for her; and she looked on at Gail's excitement and emotion with disillusioned hard young eyes and a faint curl of her lip.
Sometimes Gail dragged herself from her own rosy absorption to try—as all her world had always tried—to cheer Ariel.
"Do you know anything about Manchester?"
"The New Jersey town where Van is, where you'll live?"
"Not much," Ariel's tone would be utterly dreary. "Van says there's a country club."
"That might be fun!"
"I don't imagine anything in New Jersey is fun. It sounds to me like a horrible place!"
Words were no use. Beautiful, married to the man she had chosen, yet the secret of content was denied Ariel and she could only look forward with apprehension and backward with regret.
Ariel tried to feel contempt for Gail, so innocent, so awed, so trembling with love and faith. Ariel was but twenty-one, but life had hardened her; she had aged ten years in the last three. Nothing thrilled Ariel now, no promises rang true in her ears, no prospect allured her. And Gail at twenty-six, Gail who wrote stories and handed unmanageable little boys and novel-loving old ladies so expertly, Gail was only a child, going in utter unknowingness to her bridal night. To Gail men could still be fine, good, worthy of trust and love; to Gail marriage and motherhood would be the very crown of life.
But after all it was hard to despise beauty and strength and hope; it was hard to despise the prospect that embraced travel and new cities, and the crossing of the great ocean. Above all, it was hard to despise love, and how these two loved each other!

Gail's new cards came: Mrs. Richard Alden Stebbins. Gail's new trunk came, with a plain little "A.L.S." lettered on the blue stripe that encircled it.
On the afternoon before the day itself they were walking about the old place that was presently to be Sam's home. She not only had theories about farming, but he had an eye on pretty Beth Tait, who taught the kindergarten grades. He and Dick wandered through the deserted farmhouse that still smelled of apples and rotting wood, and through the sweet-scented barns and stables.
Sam had left them alone for a minute in the kitchen.
"If Beth and Sam make a go of it, we'll come back some day!"
"We'll come back anyway, Gail." They stepped into the doorway and looked up at the trees from which the leaves were drifting and Dick showed her his initials cut climacly into the great bole of a pepper tree. The girl stooped and touched her lips to them.
"Do you know what that is, Dick?" she asked, straightening up, with eyes full of love and laughter. "That's love, dear. The love of a woman for a man!"
"The miracle—," he said, kissing her glowing face.
On the way home they stopped at the graveyard and Gail knelt, dry-eyed and thoughtful, at Edith's little stone and touched its inscription with her fingertips.
"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God," she read. And all that evening, the last of her girlhood, she thought of Edith.
My darling, if you could share this! You'd love it so! Packing the trunk—you'd have so many little tricks out of the backs of magazines! You'd come out to visit us maybe in London, and we'd growl together—in the Strand and in Charing Cross Road—
The evening was one long dream, a dream that blended into the dreams of the short night, when she slept lightly, but sweetly, mingling waking thoughts with happy confused journeys, into the unreal.
She thought of the old house, the lately old ugly rooms, the books and books, she thought of her poetic mother, dying, with innocent little Ariel on her arm, and of motherless childhood days when she and Edith had sweated at school affairs, going off to sleep. Then papa off to the war and then the strange sense of suddenly growing up, of responsibility, that had come with the news of papa's death and her first job.
Poverty, hard work, discouragement, ignorance—how these shadows had darkened about the Lawrence children! She and Edith had philosophized, had read books and taken walks, had refused the spurious coin when the genuine had failed them. But Ariel had flattered straight toward the flame, desperately determined to force from the world what the world would not give.
Edith always steadfast, faithful, coming to the library to help with books, planning supper in the side garden, with raspberries and leeches. But Ariel in open rebellion and Gail not much better.
She remembered the day when Van Murchison came suddenly back into his life and when fun, excitement, visits and frocks had seemed within reach. Unsatisfactory, flip-pant, giddy as he had been, she had accepted him, she had determined to marry him, she had the chance to offer her—marry him to escape.

Gail, dreaming of all this on her wedding eve, trembled with a sudden chill in the darkness and solitude of her own big chamber. She would have taken Van to escape—what?
Well, this. This that she had tonight. Her friends, her background, her family, Phil and Lily and the children, all the beauty and dignity of home. To escape from her work, from Dick, and London, and all the glowing future!
Then it was morning and there was no more time for dreams. The house was still in the foggy dawn; Lily, with her hair in curlers, running frantically about the kitchen, little boys stumbling to and fro, Sam grinning over his early cup of coffee, Phil rushing off to work with all sorts of commissions and threats sounding in his ears.
Gail appeared in the kitchen just before Phil went.
"You'll be back early Phil?"
"I'll be here by ten!"
"The boy for the trunks is here, Gail!"
"There's someone we forgot, after all!" This was Phil departing.
"Oh, good heavens, Phil, who? Maybe I could telephone—"
"The Formaldehydes!" Phil called over his shoulder.
"Gail—look at the roses—"
"Listen, all the food goes here—see? In this closet. Just stick it there and while you're at it, Mrs. Wiggin and Betsy are going to sort everything out—"
"Here are the cakes from Lou. Will you look at the ten-layer cake!"
It was a complete surrender. Gail caught her little sister to her in the first real embrace they had known since Ariel had come home. Then Gail had to wipe her cheeks carefully and powder them again and go downstairs to join the others, and to be around the corner and across the tree-shaded street to St. Mark's.

The autumn day was as clear and sweet as spring water; the deep blue, the noontime air scented with faint odors of the dying Summer; odors of yellowed foliage, heavy dew on dry golden grass, tar-weed, apples.
There were people on the sidewalk—kindly persons who said, "Good luck, Miss Lawrence!" There were more clustered on the church steps and she walked between them at her brother's side. Lyddy White at the organ, and to be around the corner and across the tree-shaded street to St. Mark's.

They were all there; old friends, old neighbors, library acquaintances, Edith's associates from Muller's, the butcher and his wife, the Foster girl from the postoffice—everyone. She felt their love about her like a protecting great wall as she went slowly up the aisle and saw Dick waiting.
And at the sight of him Gail forgot everything else except that after this packed and flurried and extraordinarily emotional morning she was really getting married.
Wolfe and Miles and Danny had been shepherded into a pew, and Lily, flushed and weary, was sitting there with little Gail restless and hot in her arms; Sam looked oddly grown up. In his new suit, standing beside Dick. And Dick looked—just Dick, big and lean and homely and kind, stooping down a little, beside the shorter Sam, watching Gail, catching her eye as she looked at him.
They smiled at each other. Gail's cold right hand caught at his left, and during the ceremony their fingers were linked.
Afterward when they were at home again and the congratulatory crowds were surging about them, Dick went up to the foot of the stairs to meet her as she came down, dressed for the trip. Tears and laughter had been so mingled on her face that he thought he looked more like a blue-eyed child than ever; bewildered, grateful, touched, happy.
"When we play around the old ranch together twenty years ago, we didn't see this coming at the end, did we, Gail?" Dick said as he caught her for the run to the waiting motor car.
"At the end!" she echoed with a swift, shocked, laughing glance. "Dick, Dick, this is only the beginning! Don't forget that I'm one of the lucky Lawrences!"

Inky Becomes Indignant

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The dignity which they command, is all on which some people stand.

—Buster Bear.

This is particularly true of small people. Some of them are always ready to stand on their dignity, as the saying is, and really have little to stand on. But there are others, Jimmy Skunk, for instance, who can be as dignified as they please in the presence of those much larger than themselves for the excellent reason that they are quite equal to enforcing the respect they demand.

Inky, the little black-coated son of Jimmy Skunk, was slowly making his way in the moonlight across the dam of Paddy the Beaver, while also crossing that same dam from the opposite direction shuffled great big Buster Bear. They met just about half way across. Neither had been aware of the other until just before they met. Considering how big Buster Bear was and how small Inky was it is not surprising that Inky saw Buster before Buster was aware of Inky's presence. To this day Paddy the Beaver, who from near the dam saw that meeting, little higher and continued on his way. He had started to cross that dam and he intended to cross it. But you may be sure he had his eyes wide open for whoever was making all that noise. It happened that Buster was not trying to walk still. He can walk very still indeed when he wants to. Suddenly Inky stopped. It was a very abrupt stop. He had his first glimpse of Buster Bear. The size of him made Inky catch his breath. He hadn't believed that there was anyone in all the great world as big as this. He didn't believe it now. He had discovered how a person's shadow sometimes is very much bigger than the one who makes it and he wondered if this was not a great black shadow that he was looking at.

"There simply cannot be anybody as big as that," muttered Inky. "Why, one foot is as big as the whole of me! Of course there isn't anybody as big as that."
Just then Buster stopped and turned to look off across the pond. When he turned he looked bigger than ever. But when a moment later he stood up on his hind feet in order to see something better, poor little Inky didn't know what to think. For an instant he was tempted to turn and run. Then something inside him wouldn't let him do that. He remembered how respectful Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote had been to Mother Skunk when he and his brothers and sisters had been out walking with her one night, and he remembered how respectful Gray Fox had been to him when they had met just the other night.
"No, sir, I won't run!" declared Inky. "I started across here and I am going across, giant or no giant. Before I start running away I'll find out if there is any need of running. I haven't had to run from anybody yet, and I don't intend to begin now unless I have to."

Inky started on his way. So did Buster Bear. Buster was shuffling along, grumbling to himself, for he was a trifle out of sorts. Suddenly he heard a slight sound just ahead of him and stopped instantly to look. What he saw made him grin in spite of himself. There, about ten feet ahead of him, was a small person all in black, so small that he could have crushed him under one of his own big paws, and this small person was stamping his feet in a most determined manner. It was this which had caught his attention. Over this funny little fellow's back was a broad, bushy tail with a white tip.
"One of Jimmy Skunk's children," muttered Buster Bear. "And he has the impudence to try to stop me! I'll give him such a scare that he'll remember me as long as he lives."
With this, Buster took a step forward, showed all his teeth and growled his deepest, ugliest-sounding growl. "Get out of my way!" he snarled.
That that Inky forgot that he had seen a big bear. Instantly he became indignant. He stamped his front feet still more angrily. "You get out of my way!" he ordered.
